OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE OF URBAN WATER SUPPLY SYSTEM (WATER QUALITY AND PURIFICATION)(A) 課題別研修「都市上水道維持管理(浄水・水質)（A）」
JFY 2017
NO. J1704259 / ID. 1784468
Course Period in Japan: From July 5, 2017 to August 10, 2017

This information pertains to one of the JICA Knowledge Co-Creation Program (Group & Region Focus) of the Japan International Cooperation Agency (JICA), which shall be implemented as part of the Official Development Assistance of the Government of Japan based on bilateral agreement between both Governments.

‘JICA Knowledge Co-Creation (KCC) Program’ as a New Start

In the Development Cooperation Charter which was released from the Japanese Cabinet in February 2015, it is clearly pointed out that “In its development cooperation, Japan has maintained the spirit of jointly creating things that suit partner countries while respecting ownership, intentions and intrinsic characteristics of the country concerned based on a field-oriented approach through dialogue and collaboration. It has also maintained the approach of building reciprocal relationships with developing countries in which both sides learn from each other and grow and develop together.” We believe that this ‘Knowledge Co-Creation Program’ will serve as a center of mutual learning process.
I. Concept

Background

It has been recognized that more than 1.1 billion people around the world have no access to safe drinking water.

Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) target to halve, by 2015, the proportion of the people who are unable to reach or to afford safe drinking water. The new Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) target to ensure “By 2030, achieve universal and equitable access to safe and affordable drinking water for all” with sustainable management.

Osaka City and Kyoto City have accumulated various experiences in operation and maintenance of urban water supply system, through the trial and error in the modernization and recovery process after WWII. The accumulated technique and knowledge shall contribute to secure the safe and sustainable water supply in developing countries.

For What

This program aims to contribute to the improvement of the techniques and knowledge of counterpart organizations and their related organizations of Japan’s bilateral cooperation program.

To whom

Engineers currently engaged in “Water Quality and Purification” who belong to urban drinking water supply management organizations and who have more than 5 years of working experience in the said field, as well as being the leadership position to give technical instructions to other personnel.

How

(1) Participating organizations are required to have discussions about the issues on “Water Quality and Purification” of operation and maintenance of urban water supply system in the organizations, and give the participants clear mission or assignment what to acquire in the program, before their departure.

(2) Participants will learn and observe the urban water supply system, specifically on “Water Quality and Purification” in Osaka City and Kyoto City, and analyze what can be applied to their organization in order to improve the issues of the organization.

(3) Participating organizations are required to establish a program by their own initiative to disseminate the technique and knowledge brought back by the participants.

   (2) Remark:
     The city of Osaka and The city of Kyoto are situated at the heart of the Japanese archipelago. They have been developed over the centuries as a center of Japanese political and economic life.
     The Osaka city's water supply system became only the fourth modern supply system in the country when it was inaugurated in November 1895. Numerous expansion programs in line with the growth of the city's area and population have since brought the system's supply capacity up to its current daily level of 2.43 million m³.
     The City of Kyoto almost relies on Lake Biwa as water source and intakes by the Lake Biwa Waterway, and partially on the Uji River. The raw water is purified in 3 Purification Plants (Keage, Matsugasaki, Yamanouchi and Shin-Yamashina). Purified water is distributed by distribution pipes and supplied from water supply equipment which leads to your home.

A pre-departure orientation will be held at the respective country's JICA office (or Embassy of Japan), to provide participants with details on travel to Japan, conditions of the participation in the program and other matters.

V. Other Information

1. Participants who have successfully completed the program will be awarded a certificate by JICA.

2. For the promotion of mutual friendship, JICA Kansai encourages international exchange between JICA participants and local communities, including school and university students as a part of development education program. JICA participants are expected to contribute by attending such activities and will possibly be asked to make presentations on the society, economy and culture of their home country.

3. Participants are recommended to bring laptop computers for your convenience, if possible. During the program, participants are required to work on the computers, including preparation of Action Plan(AP), etc. Most of the accommodations have internet access. Also, there is a computer room in JICA Kansai where 14 desk-top computers are available with internet access.

4. Allowances, such as for accommodation, living, clothing, and shipping, will be deposited to your temporary bank account (opened by JICA) 2 to 5 days after your arrival in Japan. It is highly advised to bring some cash / traveler's check in order to cover necessary expense for this period.

5. It is very important that your currency must be exchanged to Japanese Yen at any transit airport or Kansai International Airport (KIX) in Osaka, Japan soon after your arrival. It is quite difficult to exchange money after that, due to limited availability of facility or time during the program.

JICA and Capacity Development

The key concept underpinning JICA operations since its establishment in 1974 has been the conviction that “capacity development” is central to the socioeconomic development of any country, regardless of the specific operational scheme one may be undertaking, i.e. expert assignments, development projects, development study projects, Knowledge Co-Creation programs (until 2015, so called “training”), JOCV programs, etc.

Within this wide range of programs, Knowledge Co-Creation Programs have long occupied an important place in JICA operations. Conducted in Japan, they provide partner countries with opportunities to acquire practical knowledge accumulated in Japanese society. Participants dispatched by partner countries might find useful knowledge and re-create their own knowledge for enhancement of their own capacity or that of the organization and society to which they belong.

About 460 pre-organized programs cover a wide range of professional fields, ranging from education, health, infrastructure, energy, trade and finance, to agriculture, rural development, gender mainstreaming, and environmental protection. A variety of programs are being customized to address the specific needs of different target organizations, such as policy-making organizations, service provision organizations, as well as research and academic institutions. Some programs are organized to target a certain group of countries with similar developmental challenges.

Japanese Development Experience

Japan was the first non-Western country to successfully modernize its society and industrialize its economy. At the core of this process, which started more than 140 years ago, was the “adopt and adapt” concept by which a wide range of appropriate skills and knowledge have been imported from developed countries; these skills and knowledge have been adapted and/or improved using local skills, knowledge and initiatives. They finally became internalized in Japanese society to suit its local needs and conditions.

From engineering technology to production management methods, most of the know-how that has enabled Japan to become what it is today has emanated from this “adoption and adaptation” process, which, of course, has been accompanied by countless failures and errors behind the success stories. We presume that such experiences, both successful and unsuccessful, will be useful to our partners who are trying to address the challenges currently faced by developing countries.

However, it is rather challenging to share with our partners this whole body of Japan’s developmental experience. This difficulty has to do, in part, with the challenge of explaining a body of “tacit knowledge,” a type of knowledge that cannot fully be expressed in words or numbers. Adding to this difficulty are the social and cultural systems of Japan that vastly differ from those of other Western industrialized countries, and hence still remain unfamiliar to many partner countries. Simply stated, coming to Japan might be one way of overcoming such a cultural gap.

JICA, therefore, would like to invite as many leaders of partner countries as possible to come and visit us, to mingle with the Japanese people, and witness the advantages as well as the disadvantages of Japanese systems, so that integration of their findings might help them reach their developmental objectives.
